Senior Class Wins Contest

Another Cinderella

By Bethson.

Mildred Brown sat perched on the high stool in the bookkeeper's cage. She wrote rapidly, the report must be finished by six o'clock. Perhaps you wonder why one, seemingly a daughter of the rich, should thus work and worry and squeeze each moment of time until it shrieked. Three years before she had been a "Belle" in Boston, but when fortune had failed she had taken the burden of keeping her mother and herself out of poverty street. She was rich only in beauty, in mental and in physical powers. In dollars and cents she was very poor.

She laid down her pen, blotted the paper and sealed the last envelope just as the hurrying hand of the clock touched six.

"Done, and just in time. Now for school."

"School at six in the afternoon," the dainty young highbrow would gasp,

Oratorical Contest

The Annual Oratorical Contest of Wasatch High will be held on March 9th. Only one student can win the medal, but every student that enters the contest receives development.

The tryouts for the contest will be held on February 23rd. You can win if you try. Do your best.

Home Economics Ball

The sewing girls of the first division of the Home Economics Club presented a most successful sack apron and overall dance in the gymnasium Saturday, January 27th.

There were four features of the party that were particularly fascinating—

Composition Contest

Heber Mercantile Offers Award for Best Composition.

The Heber Mercantile Company is offering an award to the student who writes the best composition on the subject, "Why Peace is Better than War".

Here is an opportunity to do something worth while. Think about it. It will pay you. The plan for the contest will be explained later.

Campus Day

The Campus Day program proved to be very successful. The citizens and the students worked loyally and 181 loads of soil were hauled to the High School grounds. The lady members of the faculty and the High School girls furnished and served hot dinner to 210 people during the noon time. There were 55 teams in all at work on the job. The Seniors secured 22 teams, the Juniors 10, the Sophomores 8 and the Freshmen 14. One team did not wear the colors of any class. The Seniors carried off the honors and in the evening a dance was given in their honor and for those who had aided in this most worthy move.
